

Tristan Aronovich

Actor / Musician

Non-Union
Los Angeles, CA

Gender	Male
Age Range	Thirties (30-39)
Ethnicity	White/Caucasian
Representation	Yes
Voice Age	Young Adult
Voice Genre	Character Voices / Jingles and Songs / Movies/Game Trailers

Bio

Award-winning actor, filmmaker, musician and a finalist to represent Brazil at the OSCARS® 2016, Tristan Aronovich is considered one of the most talented Brazilian-american artists of his generation. His latest film projects opened in movie theaters in Brazil and were acquired by SONY ENTERTAINMENT, FOX CHANNEL, AXN CHANNEL, BOX BRAZIL, AIR FRANCE, EMIRATES AIRLINES and NET NOW VOD to name a few. His new project, the dramatic feature film "Algue m Qualquer/ANYONE OUT THERE" (in which Aronovich not only played the main character, but also directed, wrote, edited and composed the music for), received numerous international awards and was described as "...a universal master piece..." by Dr. Jose Barriga at HARVARD UNIVERSITY. Tristan's work in "ANYONE OUT THERE" also received attention from Brazil's mainstream press and was described as "...worthy of Charles Chaplin..." (O Estado de S.P.) and "...this movie needs to be seen for the impeccable performance delivered by Tristan Aronovich. His work is exceptional..." (Globo News). Tristan's debut as a feature film director was also a remarkable success: his feature film "Wireless", released in Brazilian Theaters in November of 2009, was described as "...the 'Breathless' of the new generation..." by Silvio Tendler. In 2015, Casting Director Andra Reev-Rab (The Big Bang Theory) described Tristan's performance as "...elegant, devastating, masterful...".

Work History
